

First-year mathematics education in Wageningen

Valente Ramirez

Abstract

In this talk, I will describe the service teaching we do in Wageningen during the first year of our bachelor's programs. Our approach is characterized by an emphasis on Wageningen-relevant applications and small-scale teaching. I will highlight the (perceived) differences with other 4TU universities, and conclude with some challenges we currently face.

Short biography

Valente Ramirez is a lecturer at Biometris, the mathematics and statistics group at Wageningen University & Research. He teaches both mathematics and statistics courses across multiple levels and study programs.

